MAYOR FAVORS BOND ISSUE FOR CITY AIRPORT

In Statement He Declares

Maj. Lambert Says Only
City or U. S. Can Buy His Airdrome—Rejects Von Hoffmann Offer.

Mayor Miller, who announced Tuesday that he would not recommend the purchase of a municipal airport because he could not "see where the city would get any revenue" from a flying field, today issued a prepared statement advocating the acquisition of a municipal airdrome and announcing his readiness to co-operate in such an enterprise.

The Mayor repeated, however, that the municipal funds would not stand a draft to buy a field and suggested a bond issue as the best means of raising money to make the purchase. The Chamber of Commerce is having a survey made by E. Russell Miller to select the most favorable sites for a landing field.

Those returning find their homes rising out of a sandy, frequently muddy, waste. In many cases the floors are covered with mud and

Louisiana Flood Exiles Return to Ruined Homes

Some Will Try to Rebuild in Desolated St. Bernard and Plaquemines Parishes—Others Give Up, Go Back to City.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 2.—The exiles of St. Bernard and Plaquemines are returning home. Caernarvon Crevasses, created to save the city of New Orleans from the Mississippi River flood, has been closed.

The spectacular haste and excitement that marked the exodus of residents of the condemned parishes is absent in their return. They traveled the New Orleans road in their evacuation before the break, deserting their tidy little homes, much in the same fashion as villages doomed to shell fire are evacuated before the advancing enemy.

They came out of the parishes by hundreds. They are trickling back by fives and pairs and singly as the water recedes to leave a mud-choked, mud-covered waste where only were fertile garden spots and the richest for trapping lands in the country.

Many Will Not Return. Many former residents of the two parishes, twice flooded within a period of five years, will not return to their water-devastated homes. The creation of the crevasses coming at a time when the district was approaching complete recovery from the flood of 1922, robbed them of a desire to return and attempt again to go; nothing else to do. We must make the most of it.

Claims for reparations, filed by residents of the two parishes, have in many cases been approved and payments made. A special session of the Louisiana Legislature has been called for next week to consider legislation to hasten this phase of relief.

Mayor's Statement.

"There seems to be an impression prevailing that I, as Mayor of the City of St. Louis, am opposed to efforts being made for the creation of an airport here, and that I am unwilling to co-operate to bring this about."

"This is not true. As a matter of fact I favor an airport and am willing to do everything within my power to make the City of St. Louis the biggest airport in the world, which its natural location makes possible."

"The first thing, however, that should be done is to find out how much money is necessary to have an airport, and then to raise it. Everyone, I believe, has been informed that our municipal revenue is strained to the limit. The only other source for revenue is bonds. I would be willing to support a bond issue for an airport. It would take some time to originate and vote on a bond issue, and unless the purchase of land could be made at a fair and reasonable price, we know that condemnation proceedings might take seven years to acquire the property."

Von Hoffmann's Offer.

"It has been announced that I have my possession written off from Mr. Lambert, the man of wealth, the veteran of aeronautics at St. Louis, and a man of wealth and civic pride to advance the city the necessary money to purchase a flying field. This announcement has been published in the press, yet I have heard nothing from those advocating the building of an airport. I shall be glad to entertain any committee which has any advice to offer to me and will welcome suggestions from citizens."

General Weather Conditions.

Thunderstorms have occurred in Northeastern Texas, the Lower Mississippi Valley, the extreme Upper Mississippi Valley. Gusty winds have continued over the North Atlantic seaboard. In the remainder of the country east of the Rocky Mountains fair weather has prevailed. The temperatures are generally reasonable.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 2.—Springfield, Sedalia and Carthage motion picture houses are affected by a strike of union motion picture operators, stage hands and musicians which began yesterday when a year's contract expired and the workers demanded an increase in pay.

The Exhibitors' Association, representing 350 of the 400 movie and vaudeville theaters, named a committee to arbitrate the argument but leaders of the stage hands' and operators unions still refused to submit their grievances to arbitration.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 2.—Springfield, Sedalia and Carthage motion picture houses are affected by a strike of union motion picture operators, stage hands and musicians which began yesterday when a year's contract expired and the workers demanded an increase in pay.

All the movie houses here are open. Three accepted the union's terms but the others employed workmen from other cities. After a day of conferences between picture theater owners and representatives of the unions, the demands of the workers dwindled from a general increase of $5 a week for operators to an increase of $1.75 per week for two operators, but the theater owners still refused to concede the advance. The strikers pickedet the picture houses.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 2.—Springfield, Sedalia and Carthage motion picture houses are affected by a strike of union motion picture operators, stage hands and musicians which began yesterday when a year's contract expired and the workers demanded an increase in pay.

The strike was accomplished in testing the advisability of including such rafts as standard equipment for aviators flying over water. It was sanctioned by Rear Admiral Moffett, Naval Air Chief, and carried out by marine aviators under Maj. C. E. Lutz.

Huffman, who comes from St. Clairsville, O., jumped from a training plane piloted by Lieut. V. M. Guyon of Salt Lake City. When he was testing out for the international speedboat contests at Detroit next week, capsized and sank in 50 feet of water.

Gar Wood is a brother of Phil Wood, pilot of the Windsor-to-Windsor plane, now in Quebec en route.

Three girls steered their outboard motor boat when Wood was floating and towed him to a wharf. Wood would make no statement, but it was believed that his boat was capsized by waves from a passing lake steamer.

The raft used was similar to that which carried Commander Byrd and his crew to shore when their boat was capsized by waves from a passing lake steamer.

Cost Privately Borne.

Lambert has been paying the cost of operating the field out of his own pocket since he first took option on the ground in 1923. The cost is about $8000 a year. Despite that, the various flying interests are allowed to use it without charge.

The field was finally purchased 1924 for $70,000 of which Lambert personally paid $52,000. Prior to the international air races about $6000 had been expended by the

Paris Writer Asserts Military

Flight Impedes Country's

Progress in Aviation.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The French air

industry is stagnant and lags behind that of other nations, according to the writer in L'OEuvre. His article was headed, "The truth about the Levines."

He attacked the bickering between Charles A. Levine and Maurice Drouhin, who was hired and fired by Levine for a flight to New York, and the hostility shown by the French press and industrialists toward the American in the Bellanca monoplane in which Levine flew from New York to Germany.

This writer declared every expert in France knew the Columbian had no rival among French planes and that everything was done to protect it in France.

"Our own planes are obliged to wait for such ideal weather conditions that it is feared they will not get off before next year," he wrote.

"The substance of the matter is that France does not possess suitable planes, while Levine has a plane capable of great speed, fuel economy, and of such easy management that its owner, inexperienced as he was, flew it to New York in 27 hours.

Lighthouses on the Northeastern

Atlantic Coast kept a vain vigil through the night while radio stations listened for messages that did not come. Flares pierced the darkness about flying planes to guide the plane to a landing.

COOLIDGE ENDS TRIPS TO BLACK HILLS TOWNS

President Thanks South Dakotans for Their Hospitality—Offered a Farm.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 2.—President Coolidge today was back at the Summer White House at the State Game Lodge, having wound up his visits to Black Hills towns and villages.

With his visit to Newell and Nioland yesterday the President completed his journeys away from game lodge. He has visited all but a few of most important towns in the hills, averaging a trip a week during his "vacation" here. And in his own words he has enjoyed it.

Pleased Over Visit.
"As I may not have another public opportunity," he said, at the Nioland Fair, his last scheduled public appearance in the Black Hills, "I take this occasion to express to you the deep appreciation of myself and family for all the hospitality and many tokens of affection that have been accorded us. I assure you that we will take back to Washington a memory of a very pleasant vacation."

The two informal speeches, made by the President yesterday—the one at Nioland and another at Newell—praising the progress made by the irrigation projects, came as surprises because it has not been Mr. Coolidge's custom to make impromptu remarks. Before coming into the Black Hills, informal addresses were a rarity with him.

The crowd at the Nioland Fair warmed up to his half humorous, half serious talk in true Western style, and gave a cheer when he spoke in appreciation of the kindness shown him here.

The President's Black Hills summer vacation is scheduled to keep him busy at his desk, but few conferences are listed. This week-end he will confer with Senator Gingharn of Connecticut. Today or tomorrow he probably will complete the preparation of his address at the Brookings, S. D., Agricultural College, having been at work on it several hours each day this week.

Offered 160-Acre Farm.

At Nioland President Coolidge was offered a 160-acre farm for his use when he leaves the White House and he smilingly responded that through the generosity of the Black Hills people he has received enough land to become a full-fledged farmer of South Dakota.

The President made his Nioland talk from the fair grandstand.

"I accept this gift with a great deal of pleasure," the President said as two sheep were presented to him. "This is not the first time I have been the owner of sheep but it does happen that I have not owned any in the past 40 years."

"I am becoming very attached to the sheep. Since I have been here I have been presented with a fine saddle horse and all of the accoutrements. This afternoon was promised that I would be made the possessor of a 160-acre farm in this fertile valley if I would return to live here, and now I have been presented with two sheep."

"It happens that these presents round out just what I need to become a farmer in South Dakota. Since I am the possessor of a herd of cattle and other animals, I am fully equipped to become a citizen, representative of the Black Hills of South Dakota."

Speaks Words of Encouragement.

Words of encouragement were spoken to farmers of the Belle Fourche irrigation project by President Coolidge after he had toured the Government experimental farm at Newell.

The President had left his automobile for the first time during the trip about the farm to receive a miniature "irrigation" shovel from W. C. Bucholz, secretary of the station. Several hundred farmers and their wives gathered about the car.

"I have been very interested in viewing the progress of this irrigation project," Mr. Coolidge said.

"We are not certain that it would be a success but more recent experiments have demonstrated that it is a success. I believe that it will contribute to the welfare of this section, that it will sustain an increasing population and that will add to the productivity of the soil in this region."

Mr. Coolidge was invited when he was invited to make his home in the irrigation project when he left the White House.

"If you and Mrs. Coolidge will come and live among us," Secretary Bucholz said, "we will give you the regulation 160-acre farm to start on."

TOWN STILL HOPEFUL

REDFERN IS ALIVE

Brunswick, (Ga.), Thinks U.
S. Brazil Flyer Will Be Found in a Few Days.By the Associated Press.
BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 2.—Repeated disappointments in the wake of groundless rumors concerning the fate of Paul Redfern, missing Georgia aviator, have failed to dim the hope of the populace here that the flyer will be found alive within the next few days.Although the whereabouts of Redfern is unknown after more than a week of silence since he hopped from this city for Rio de Janeiro, the belief prevails here that reports of an unidentified plane sighted in Venezuela indicate strongly that the aviator reached the Southern continent.
The latest disappointment came yesterday with denial of a report from Para, Brazil, that Redfern's plane had fallen in the vicinity of Alemquer, on the northern bank of the Amazon River, approximately 300 miles west of Macapa, at which point the flyer is believed to have dropped his load of mail, indicating whether he would drop further onward to Rio or cut short his journey by lack of fuel or another reason and head toward Pernambuco.Brazil to Prevent Dissemination of Misleading Reports.By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept.
2.—The Brazilian Government, to prevent the dissemination of misleading reports, has ordered all land, cable and radio stations not to give to the public the slightest news of Paul Redfern, American aviator, until after finding it in Rio de Janeiro, so that the Government may inform Edwin Morgan, the American Ambassador.Aviators from British Guiana Search for Redfern.By the Associated Press.
GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Sept. 2.—Efforts to locate the missing American aviator, Paul Redfern, are continuing. Aviators in a seaplane from Georgetown reported that they had made a diligent search as far as Maranham, near the Brazilian frontier, but without result. They are proceeding to the Courantyne River, on the eastern boundary of British Guiana, to resume the search.

GIRL BRIDE SAYS FUGITIVE HUSBAND STOLE IN ST. LOUIS
Held by Salt Lake City Officers Who Fired on Suspect Firing Several Shots

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 2.—A bride of high school age who identified herself as Ellene C. Weyland of Albany, N. Y., was held in the county jail here today without charge while officers searched the hills for her husband. The man obtained their marriage license in Evanston, Wyo., Wednesday, under the name of Carlton Beers, a short time before he attempted to buy a filling station. She said he lived in Albany.

The girl was arrested with Henry Kelso and a 2-year-old child after a chase which ended when officers fired at a large sedan driven by Beers, as the car entered the Echo canyon, 85 miles northeast of here. Beers escaped into the hills. Kelso said the baby girl was his daughter and that his home was at Evanston.

Miss Ellene said that she left Albany with Beers about six weeks ago and went to St. Louis, where they secured the automobile. She told the sheriff that Beers stole the car and that Kelso and the baby joined them at Wheeling, Mo.

Beers threatened to kill her, she said, if she refused to marry him. Beers was heavily armed when he escaped.

WOMAN WHO THREW ACID ON MAN AT SEA INDICTED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Mary Waits, former stewardess on the American steamship Trader and the first woman in many years to be arrested here for homicide on the high seas, was indicted by the Federal grand jury yesterday for manslaughter, felonious assault, and malice aforethought. She is in Jefferson Market prison, where she was taken following her arrest here Aug. 19, when she arrived from England on the President Roosevelt. It is convicted under all three counts of the indictment she may receive a maximum prison term of 37 years.

Louis Friederichs, sailing under the name of Louis Fisher, as third refrigerating engineer on the shipfield in France as a souvenir, killed Charles Rivers, 5-year-old son of the Rev. W. W. Rivers here yesterday. Two children who stood near Charles were uninjured.

sault when she returned to this country, however.

According to Capt. Hubbard C. Fish of the American Trader, Mrs. Waits told him she threw the acid into the sea and Fisher had had a love affair and had tired of her and told her he was going to see another girl in London. Mrs. Waits is 32 years old and a widow. Her trial was set for Sept. 19.

MAN FAILS TO SWIM TO EADS BRIDGE FROM CHAIN OF ROCKS

Laborer Says He Became Fatigued and Climbed Into Skiff—Treated at Hospital.

An ambulance was called to the river at Madison street yesterday afternoon, to take a man who said he was sick and rowed to the docks, where he was cared for by employees of the Steamer Birmingham, moored

905 Deserhan street, to City Hospital. Riess told policemen he had started out from Chain of Rocks to swim down the river to Eads Bridge, pushing a skiff ahead of him, and rowed to the docks, where he was cared for by employees of the Steamer Birmingham, moored there. He then rowed down the river to the point where the ambulance was called, he said. After giving him temporary treatment, physicians at the hospital permitted the man to go to his home.

When he neared the Municipal Docks at North Market street, he became fatigued, climbed into the skiff and rowed to the docks, where he was cared for by employees of the Steamer Birmingham, moored at 905 Deserhan street, to City Hospital.

He then rowed down the river to the point where the ambulance was called, he said. After giving him temporary treatment, physicians at the hospital permitted the man to go to his home.

29 DEFENDANTS PLEAD GUILTY OF
CHARGES IN DAY

Several of 13 Others in Circuit Court Expected to Take Similar Course to Escape Heavy Sentences.

Rather than be tried before a jury and risk a severe sentence such as St. Louis juries have been returning in recent months, many defendants in criminal cases are pleading guilty and leaving themselves on the mercy of the court.

Pleas of guilty were entered in 29 of the 42 cases called yesterday before Circuit Judge Pearcey, and it is expected some of the defendants who pleaded not guilty will change their mind before they face a jury.

Seven men pleaded guilty of carrying concealed weapons. Judge Pearcey gave six of them 60 days each in the Workhouse, and the seventh, an ex-soldier, was fined $100.

Slayer's Sentence Deferred.

Sentence was deferred, pending further investigation, in the case of Garfield Thomas, a Negro, who pleaded guilty of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Timothy Harrington, Missouri Pacific Railroad watchman, in the yards at Main and Gratiot streets, May 30. Thomas fled, but was captured at Polar Bluff, Mo. First-degree murder is punishable by death or life imprisonment.

The heaviest sentence yesterday was 10 years, given Lee Howard, a Negro, who pleaded guilty of burglary and robbery. Howard already has served two prison terms. He entered the home of Paul Belgeri, 5128 Shaw avenue, Aug. 5, and stabbed Belgeri when caught. He also participated in a $50 robbery of Mrs. John Maguire, owner of an oil station at 3740 Sullivan avenue, June 6.

Shot By Policeman.

Two years was the sentence passed against Ray Williams, a Negro burglar, who made the mistake of entering the home of Policeman Fred Beckman, 5541A Caroline street, and was shot by Beckman, Assistant Circuit Attorney Stack recommended this minimum sentence, saying the burglar was partly punished in the beating shot.

The similar sentence was given Leland Brown, a Negro, who stole dresses valued at $273 from the home of Miss Anna A. Evans, Congress Hotel, Aug. 3.

Shot By Policeman.

Two years was the sentence passed against Ray Williams, a Negro burglar, who made the mistake of entering the home of Policeman Fred Beckman, 5541A Caroline street, and was shot by Beckman, Assistant Circuit Attorney Stack recommended this minimum sentence, saying the burglar was partly punished in the beating shot.

BOUNDARIES OF EIGHT SCHOOLS CHANGED

Re-Opening of Yeatman as Intermediate Makes Shift in Districts.

There will be a new intermediate school for white children and a new combination intermediate and high school for Negroes when the public education system resumes operation here next Tuesday.

Yeatman school, which has been out of use since January, 1926, when it ceased to be a high school, will reopen as an intermediate school. The building had been used in the interim by Central High, while Central's structure underwent repairs. Central students will return to their own quarters next week after 19 months' absence.

Negroes will have a new structure, a high school, at Garrison and Lacides avenues, housing both intermediate and full secondary classes. This is the city's first extension of the higher education facilities for Negroes for some years.

There are three other intermediate schools for whites, giving seventh, eighth and ninth grade work—Biswell, McKinley and Franklin schools. High schools, giving tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade work, are Central, Seland, Cleveland, Beaumont and Roosevelt, and, for Negroes, Sumner.

Boundaries Changed.

Re-opening of Yeatman has necessitated changing boundaries of some upper school districts, the new limits being as follows:

Baumont District—From Natural Bridge avenue to the city limits to the river to North Market street to Taylor avenue to Easton avenue to Kingshighway boulevard to Natural Bridge, the city limits, the point of beginning.

Central District—From Taylor avenue on North Market street to the river to the Frisco railroad tracks to the city limits to Clayton avenue to Oakland avenue to Kingshighway boulevard to Lindell boulevard to Taylor avenue to North Market street, the point of beginning.

Clarendon District—From city limits on Devonshire avenue and its extension to Hampton avenue and its extension to Pernod avenue to Kingshighway boulevard to Olscha avenue to Morganford road to Potomac street and its extension to the river to the city limits to Devonshire avenue, the point of beginning.

Roosevelt District—From city limits on Frisco railroad track to the river to Potomac street and its extension to Morganford road to Olscha avenue to Kingshighway boulevard to Pernod avenue to an extension of Hampton avenue and Hampton avenue to Devonshire avenue and its extension to the city limits to the Frisco railroad tracks, the point of beginning.

Midway District—From city limits on Natural Bridge avenue to Kingshighway boulevard to Easton avenue to Taylor avenue to Lindell boulevard to Kingshighway boulevard to Oakland avenue to Clayton avenue to the city limits to Natural Bridge avenue, the point of beginning.

Yeatman District.

McKinley Intermediate School—From Ranken avenue on the railroad tracks to Compton avenue to Clark avenue to Jefferson avenue to the railroad tracks to Fourteenth street to Gratiot street to Thirteenth street to Rutger street to Eleventh street to Geyer avenue to Menard street to Lami street to Twelfth street to Sidney street to Twelfth street to Lynch street to Sixth street to Arsenal street to Jefferson avenue to Lynch street to One avenue to Sidney street to Compton avenue to Clark avenue to Hanke avenue to the railroad tracks, the point of beginning.

Franklin Intermediate District—From Compton avenue on Easton avenue to Dickson street to Glass Avenue to Sheridan Avenue to Jefferson Avenue to Cass Avenue to Twentieth street to Warren street to Nineteenth street to Montgomery street to Blair Avenue to Howard street to Twentieth street to Cass Avenue to the river to Market street to Clark Avenue to Compton Avenue to the railroad tracks to Ranken Avenue to Laclede Avenue to Channing Avenue to Bell Avenue to Compton Avenue to Easton Avenue, the point of origin.

Yeatman Intermediate District—From Prairie Avenue to Kossoth Avenue to Oberar Avenue to Carter Avenue to Grand Boulevard to Broadway to Twelfth street to First street to Ferry Street to Eleventh street to Anselmo Street to Twentieth street to Sullivan Avenue to North Market Street to Grand Boulevard to St. Louis Avenue to Market Street to Grand Boulevard to St. Louis Avenue to Prairie Avenue and its extension through Fairground Park to Kossoth Avenue, the point of origin.

CHAMPION TUNNEY ARRIVES IN CHICAGO AND GETS BIG DEMONSTRATION

HUGE PARADE
ESCORTS GENE
TO CITY HALL

Dempsey's Opponent in Bout of Sept. 22 Is Presented With "Keys to the City"—Makes Brief Talk

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The report given credence in some quarters that Gene Tunney is not a popular heavyweight champion got a rousing denial here today when like a conquering hero he swept into one of Chicago's greatest demonstrations.

Thousands of cheering men, women and children crowded the rail station and the streets for blocks about it when Tunney came in on the Twentieth Century Limited from his training camp at Speculator, N. Y., to complete his conditioning for his return match with Jack Dempsey here Sept. 22.

A brass band whooped up things which needed no whooping and a squad of Marines lent an air of formality, hastily lost to the station reception.

Tunney's smile beamed its broadest as he led his party of 20 from a special car. He waved and shewed greetings to friends he recognized.

Tex Rickard, "manager" of the forthcoming setto for George Gels, the "promoter" managed to get a position alongside the champion, and they fought their way through the throng to a string of semi-combatives waiting to take the champion and the welcoming committee on a review. The packed streets to the City Hall, where Mayor William Hale Thompson waited to hand him the traditional key to the city.

A dozen snorting motorcycles with policemen clearing the way with shrieking sirens headed the procession.

As the parade passed the Board of Trade, the foot of LaSalle Street and headed into the financial district showers of ticker tape, torn newspapers and pages from telephone books began to shower through the air. The windows of skyscrapers were filled with cheering, waving business leaders, clerks and stenographers.

At the city hall the champion was herded through jammed corridors into the big council chamber, where he was posed with virtually every important personage connected with the Municipal Government and numerous business leaders.

Hundreds of welcomers were bidden in the gallery and shouted incessantly. Demands for a speech mingled with the hurrahs, and finally Gene mounted the rostrum and sold hello and a few other words that virtually were lost in the din.

The champion seemed to have thanked the throng for its reception but his words were just about in the noise.

"I am not going to fight here Sept. 22," Tunney said after he had thanked Chicago for its reception. "The fact I am opposed to fighting, I am going to engage in a boxing on.

From the council chamber Tunney was taken to Mayor Thompson's executive suite.

After the hand shaking ceremony at the City Hall, Tunney motored to the Congress Hotel for a conference with Rickard. The champion planned to leave later in the afternoon for his camp at Cedar Crest Country Club, 25 miles northwest and spend the night there.

He intended to start training tomorrow but probably do nothing more than some light limbering up exercises and a little road work. Jack Dempsey preceded the champion here by two weeks and already is in training at Lincoln Field track.

Tunney Boxes Three Rounds.

Dempsey yesterday boxed three rounds with a trio of partners.

He devoted his time to perfecting a defense against left hand leads and jabs, but he pleased the crowd of fans on hand when he occasionally let go with some of the punches he hones on Tunney.

Fans are paying $1.50 each to watch Dempsey train, but Tunney has said the public can watch him free. He will find his camp at Cedar Crest similar to his camp in Speculator, except for isolation and elevation.

There is plenty of woods and water with a rolling country road about suitable for road work. Although slightly farther from Chicago than the Speculator camp is the racetrack, the 15-mile jaunt to Cedar Crest gives indications of becoming well worn before Tunney leaves again.

Secret Committee Through.

With the champion training here, fight ticket headquarters expect an increase in demand for tickets. However, the public already has poured out almost $2,000,000 in the advance sales and Tex Rickard, the promoter, has reaffirmed his belief that the fight easily will attract a $2,000,000 gate.

The secret committee of five business men has completed its task of allotting the 7000 ringside seats, including the 100 in the first row, but there has been no indication as to who got the specific locations.

WALTER MARANVILLE.

MARANVILLE IS SIGNED TO AID
CARDS' INFIELD

"Rabbit" Is Obtained From Rochester to Bolster O'Farrell's Team in Final Drive for Pennant,

PITTSBURG, Sept. 2.—Walter Maranville, veteran infielder now purchased from the Rochester club, arrived here today and reported this morning to Manager O'Farrell. He appeared in the lineup against Pittsburgh. He made a good showing in yesterday's exhibition game against the Cards and appears in excellent condition.

Walter Maranville, veteran shortstop, who has been with the Rochester club in the International League, was purchased by the World Champion Cardinals. Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis National, announced this morning the deal was completed yesterday, when the world champions played the International Leaguers in an exhibition game. The deal involved a Syracuse player, Kapt, and a cash consideration.

Veteran Has Wide Experience.

Maranville has had plenty of experience. He first sprang into prominence as a member of the Boston Braves in 1914, when that club came from nowhere to win the Eastern League title.

The American victory was greeted with hearty applause by a capacity gallery which had watched intently every movement of the match.

Richard N. Williams, Philadelphia, and William M. Johnson, San Francisco, defeated James Davies and Gerald Stratford, both of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1.

Minor League Standings.

International League. Newark 3-0, Toronto 1-1, Syracuse 8-3, Baltimore 6-1, Jersey City 10-2, Buffalo 8-6. Open date for Rochester and Toledo.

FALLES VOICES FRIENDSHIP FOR
U.S. IN MESSAGE

Washington Has Never Presented Evidence of Concrete Acts of Aggression Against Capital, He Says.

JAMES CLERGY FOR RELIGIOUS CONFLICT

Religion Has Shown Itself Indifferent to Suspension of Catholic Services, He Asserts.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—President Calles has reported to the newly-assembled congress that no one has presented concrete evidence of Mexican aggression against foreign capital invested in the oil industry. The presidential message yesterday was about 35,000 words long and contained a carefully framed discussion of relations with the United States.

"Relations with the United States is so fundamental in our international life for obvious reasons of proximity and large commercial interests, assume unfortunately a character of indecision that frequently brings about disagreement between the two governments," President Calles said.

"There even take place acts which the executive considers desirable. These hurt national feelings which desire only constant and cordial friendship with the United States. They hurt commerce and business and hinder our peaceful development."

Blame U. S. Constitution.

"The fundamental difficulties with the Government of the United States, as it is universally known, is the enforcement of the laws derived from Article 27 of the (Mexican) Constitution. To date the disagreement with Washington deals principally with the character of the aforesaid statutes."

"They have never presented to the Government of Mexico evidence of concrete acts of aggression against foreign capital invested in the petroleum controversy whose rebellion and defiance of the laws such as no independent country can admit."

The conflict with the Catholic Church has been brief with the President charged the clergy with responsibility for recent rebellions.

"The religious conflict, initiated by the rebellion of the clerics," he said, "but is now practically over with. All the laws, decrees and other dispositions in this connection have been carried out notwithstanding the futile resistance of the Catholic clergy. This result is nothing less than a patent demonstration that the Mexican people are different to the suspension of religious worship and condemn the conduct of the rebels against the institutions of the Republic."

"Warns Against Campaign Disorders." The President has again assured the Mexican Government would tolerate no disorder in the presidential campaign now underway. The President guarded himself against disorder by having heavily patrolled streets on his way to the legislature.

"The international life of Mexico," he said, "has presented two contradictory aspects. One is our up-to-date friendship with some nations. The other is the menacing sense of national interests in connection with the social evolution of our country."

"Mexico, the international personality of which on this continent is a faithful barometer for the observation of social problems, sustains with unbreakable vigor and courage this difficult and dangerous role. Without potential military and financial strength it endures solely the force of its own national spirit reinforced by the natural longings of democracy, liberty and justice."

Mention Against Aggression.

"In order that Mexico has the right to its convictions and always will reject aggression, it does not admit that in order to do along with other countries it should adopt foreign models in the cause of the national dignity. It accepts, even desires, co-operation with all foreigners but only in harmony with Mexican standards."

"We are the owners of our country. We grant to friends and enemies the hospitality of our country, we withhold pre-eminence which they cannot also attain for themselves. We are the only ones who can defend capital in good faith, but on condition that it respects and conforms to the laws of Mexico. These conceptions of law and justice and equity guide our relations of our country with other peoples and as long as I am the president I shall sustain as irreproachable precepts to

BRITISH JUSTICE SAYS SUPPRESSION OF NEWS IS TREASON TO THE PUBLIC

Addressing American Bar Association, He Warns of Danger of Subordinating Editorial Departments to Advertising.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Newspapers that misrepresent were characterized as a greater menace to a nation than treacherous communists propagandas by Lord Hewart, Lord Chief Justice of England and Baron of Bury, in an address before the American Bar Association last night.

Lord Hewart's speech was on the subject of the common law, but he made in it his references to communism and newspapers. He laid it down as a philosophical principle that the administration of justice is of greater importance to a people than anything else, asserting that confidence in the administration of justice makes people contented and happy.

"Well, there is no law at present to prevent newspapers from being treated as mere commercial commodities, as if they were so much soap or oil or tinned meat. But what becomes of the dignity of the press and the claims of the public? And can newspapers be heard to say that these things really do not matter if nobody any longer is ready to accept a newspaper's statement or is willing to pay attention to its opinions?"

"Here, too, there is need, is there not, for unceasing vigilance? And if indeed newspapers are to be treated as mere articles of trade, if their function is to be simply to increase and to inflame the already deplorable power of mere money in public affairs, is there any reason whatsoever why the law should exhibit any special tenderness toward them?"

Lord Hewart once was a newspaperman himself, Chief Justice Taft pointed out in his introduction.

Freedom of Press.

Of newspaper, he said: "What is called 'the freedom of the press' consists simply in the right which every person has to publish and to let his opinions so long as it is not libelous or communistic. Newspapers have no special privileges in the matter of publication, though by statute they are specially protected with reference to the publication of reports of proceedings in courts of justice and public meetings."

Taft's Tribute to England.

In welcoming Lord Hewart, Chief Justice Taft said: "I cannot forbear a reference to the country and people from whom he comes. I am prompted to this by the debt, which they are special obligations or liabilities. The right of freedom of speech is similarly, the right to say anything, in public or private, which is not either seditious or blasphemous or defamatory of any person."

"I should like very briefly to refer to a change which seems to have taken place in the character and the aims of much of the newspaper press. It goes without saying that if self-government is to be a real and a living thing, the citizens who share the responsibility of government, that is to say all the citizens, ought at least to have access to information upon public affairs which is both accurate and adequate."

"The strength and character of the English people, developed under that form of representative government, should continue to be our inspiration. The model of their administration of justice, exemplified wherever the British flag floats in its equity, efficacy and dispatch, should stimulate us to the movement and reform in our methods of procedure and to preserve the happiness of our own commonwealth by maintaining liberty when effectively regulated by law."

Fiber of English People.

"We have heard occasionally from hostile observers and prophets a suggestion that the English nation is decadent. Such comment betrays gross ignorance of what makes a great nation. Not in material and temporary prosperity is the strength of a people, but in its moral force and its endurance and its power of resistance in adversity."

"The fiber of the English people is often proven, but is added to during the years of the great World War, by its endurance and stern willingness for sacrifice, was but shortly thereafter strengthened by the courage and nerve with which it was faced and overcome the threatened dissolution of its society in a general strike. In that it alone can successfully extend it."

Commercial Tendency.

"Thirty years ago, there were already signs in many newspaper offices of a contest for supremacy between what may be called the editorial department on one side, and the business which is to a great extent the advertising department, on the other. During the interval the contest seems to have been decided and, in an enormous number of cases, decided in favor of the business department."

"It was an expert in the business department who said not long ago that the real power of the British Scientist Declares Human Being Is Most Advantageous Subject for Investigation.

LEEDS, England, Sept. 2.—Operative, experimentation on man himself rather than lower animals was advocated before the British Association of Science today by Dr. C. G. Douglas, psychologist.

Man could give subjective impressions not to be gained from lower animals, he said.

"We are bound to admit frankly that direct observations by methods of living organisms, in the case of Nisslara, her principle to allow other countries to follow suit, the government demanded by the will of her people." He added that Mexico further "accepts with both spirit all the actions tending to develop among the nations of Central and South America a peaceful and co-operative understanding, wherefrom may come forth the greatest collaboration that the people of this continent should accomplish with all foreigners but only in harmony with Mexican standards."

"We are the owners of our country. We grant to friends and enemies the hospitality of our country, we withhold pre-eminence which they cannot also attain for themselves. These conceptions of law and justice and equity guide our relations of our country with other peoples and as long as I am the president I shall sustain as irreproachable precepts to

"The only complaint I have encountered anywhere is that we haven't the equipment to handle the freight that shippers want to go by barge line. We have sugar, sisal, coffee at bauxite ore upstream from where we can handle, and far more gain downstream, the two in a touch."

He declared that the heat stores in the interior of the earth is greater than those in the earth is at least 20,000,000 times that available in the world's coal reserves.

Continued Government operation of the three barge lines in the Mississippi system, with expansion to other waters, is demanded by supporters throughout the Mississippi Valley, Major-General T. Q. Ashburn said here today.

This is a radical departure from the aspect of a Government demonstration to submit private enterprise to the point of view advanced when the Government lines on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers were opened. The question has been asked many times, "When will the Government turn the barge line over to private capital and get out of business?"

Gen. Ashburn, until as recently as last March, answered, in his public utterances, that the Government would withdraw whenever the demonstration was completed and the barge lines could be sold. But in his address at Minneapolis last week, upon completion of the first trip of the Upper Mississippi barge line, he declared: "Let it pass into the hands of anybody but the people, and its dissolution has begun; if its dissolution is near at hand."

System Opposed at First.

"When the barge lines were inaugurated, nearly 10 years ago," he explained today, "there was tremendous opposition to Government operation. It was contended that the Government should stay out of business."

"But the Government has operated in a businesslike way, through the Inland Waterways Corporation and along with the people—jointly with the shippers in the case of the Upper Mississippi, where they contributed $600,000—and made it a business success, the only Government business which does show a profit," he said.

"A commission found him guilty of smuggling would be emigrants on ships bound for the United States and of taking the money of hundreds of peasants, lured by four years in the penal colony.

Entire Crew and 100 Passengers of Boat Flying British Flag Are Kidnapped.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, China, Sept. 2.—Pirates seized the Chinese steamer Koochow, flying the British flag last night at Lingding Gorge, on the West river. Twelve pirates boarded the vessel, shot the captain while he was at dinner, and then killed the chief engineer, throwing the body overboard.

The Koochow was taken to Taiping, where more pirates helped to loot the ship. The commodore and his staff, together with the 100 Chinese passengers, were carried off as prisoners.

British Destroy Pirates' Home With Bomb as Reprisal.

HONGKONG, Sept. 2.—Chinese pirates who have lived by the sword did not die the same way in a British expedition against them in their home at Bias Bay, but they saw their homes destroyed by fire and dynamite. No British or Chinese casualties resulted from the raid. The British craft anchored at Bias Bay with the British and Cantonese and Fanlukong as their objectives. Singing out houses in which pirates were known to live, the British landed 150 men. They were met at Holchau by a village elder who volunteered to conduct them to Cheungpui and point out houses of pirates.

Forty houses on the outskirts of the village were destroyed when villagers refused to give information and later five pirate houses were destroyed by dynamite.

The punitive expedition, organized to provoke serious agitation and incidents Sept. 19 and during the week's festivities in connection with the American Legion convention has been obtained by French police authorities, according to La Libre.

This movement followed a drive on Bias Bay by a notorious and long-established base for sea raiders.

The communists also laid to mine traps around the harbor.

Irrigation were used to bomb the pirate stronghold.

Revolutions are stirring up the radicals of Paris and suburbs by means of regular meetings at which the Sacco-Vanzetti case is invoked to justify the campaign against the American exploiters.

SAMARKAND, Turkistan, Aug. 20.—The Supreme Scientific Committee claims to have found here many who are thought to be the oldest known manuscripts relating to the history of Central Asia.

The manuscripts cover a period beginning with the conquest of Central Asia by the Arabs in the Seventh century and ending with the Soviets for unveiled Moslem women. The Moslems destroyed the building housing the Soviet executive committee and many Soviet officials were severely injured.

It is declared that the official used his revolver only when attacked by the emigrant with a knife.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Hit-and-Run Driver.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
REGARDING Edgar Hudson, death car driver, who struck and killed J. M. Redfern, a gardener, and then sped on, what is going to be done about it? I suppose when his case comes up, the Judge will say, "A fine of $100" or something similar to that, and that's all that will ever be heard of him. We have too many of these hit-and-run accidents in St. Louis, killings of all kinds, and they are steadily increasing. The sentence imposed on the hit-and-run driver is but a short one; the news appears in the papers and other reckless drivers have no fear of it. The idea is, if they get caught in for this same thing all they will get is a small fine or six months and then freedom, only to try this same stunt over again.

It is dangerous for adults to cross the streets, much less children. I suppose the parents will have to go with their children to and from school to keep them from being killed by some reckless driver. I admire the spirit of the police; they do all they can to prevent accidents; but it is the Judge who let these culprits go. The police were right in locking down these criminals, and after all their hard work of getting them and bringing them in for a sentence to be passed by the Judge, the punishment these reckless drivers get isn't enough to pay for the hard-working policeman's trouble.

Impose heavy sentences, and we'll have less killings and more safety for everyone. A HIT-AND-RUN HATER.

Found Light in Paine's Works.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
WHY is it that people do not understand the philosophic work of Tom Paine? I was pleased greatly, I believe others were, by your editorial concerning Tom Paine. I was 60 years in the dark until I read his "Rights of Man," his "Age of Reason," and his "American Crisis." I mention Tom Paine in the family circle in old Virginia or in New England 50 years ago, and I am tantamount to family estrangement and church ostracism. I read the Bible from "Kiever to Kiever" with much distress and did not understand much about it until I read "The Age of Reason."

If Tom Paine was an atheist there is nothing in any of his great works to indicate it. J. C. M.
Hot Springs National Park.

Another Request.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
HUNDREDS heartily agree with the radio fan who congratulated KSD. Trying to sell one's commodities via radio is not only a handicap to those who do not have the equipment and talent, but it has become disgusting, monotonous, and disappointing, particularly to us who have automatically committed this unpleasant, tiresome sales talk to memory being forced to listen to the long advertisements between the short musical selections. Consequently such stations are being tuned out. The continuation is incredible, besides depriving us of the programs we should be permitted to enjoy. This has not concerned the popularity of radio entertainment and the same thought is being voiced by stations and particularly by out-of-town listeners.

What is the matter with advertising in the newspapers? Not only will it reach as many homes, but will give the lover of music a chance to use the radio for the purpose for which it was purchased. E. C. MAIN.

Red Tape in Compensation Inquiries.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
IN BEHALF of all workers who come

I under the compensation law, I am sending this letter to your valuable paper, asking that you kindly insert it in your columns—"Letters From the People,"—in the hope that someone will read it and be in position to bring the request herein mentioned to the attention of those in authority, so that same can be taken under consideration. The workers of various forms which are now being sent to the injured worker are reduced in number as well as wording, so that the average worker will at least know what he is signing and what is coming to him. No doubt, these worthy gentlemen, in charge of the compensation/ have overlooked the fact that the army of working men and women are not graduates of Harvard and Yale, but of the University of Hard Knocks, and as some of them are the last mentioned college cannot read much, except all this high-brow stuff of like so much Greek to them. So, Honorable Sirs kindly bear this in mind and although it may be necessary to send all this data to our employers, cut down what you send to the injured worker and make your English very plain.

B. BRIEF.

A Dangerous Practice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WISH to protest against the practice of shooting blackbirds and other small birds around Creve Coeur Lake without interference by game wardens or officials of the United Railways. It endangers lives of outing parties there.

MACHYOR.

SENATOR REED AND THE FARMERS.

We hold no brief for the presidential aspirations of Senator Reed of Missouri or anyone else. But this, in fairness to Senator Reed, we submit: He not only has not betrayed the interests of the farmers in the Senate, but he has upon occasion gone to an extreme on their behalf. This he did both in the Senate, in the fight over the Government's war-time food control policy, and later in his last campaign for re-election to the Senate, when he made a target of Herbert Hoover because of the latter's share in price-fixing activities. If Senator Reed is subject to criticism on the score of his views about agriculture, the criticism should be of an entirely different character from that which is now being directed at him.

The reference is to the action of the Missouri Farmers' Association in denouncing Reed as a traitor to agriculture. "We cannot escape the conviction," says a resolution adopted at the recent annual meeting of the association at Sedalia, "that he was willing to sacrifice the farmers of his own State in order to gain the support of the industrial East in his aspirations for the Democratic presidential nomination."

The specific thing that has thus called down the wrath of the farm association is Reed's vote against the McNary-Haugen bill. Taking a leaf from the book of the Anti-Saloon League, which cares not how else a man vote, so long as he supports the Vetoed act, the association has set up the year-and-a-half record on the McNary-Haugen bill as the sole standard by which the fitness of a candidate shall be judged. It therefore damns Reed, praises the Missouri Congressmen who voted for the bill and calls upon its members, regardless of their political views, to rally to the support of Frank O. Lowden for the Republican presidential nomination.

We are not concerned now with the political morality of this course. Let pass the fact that Reed stood by a settled conviction—one that was shared by a great many Congressmen—when he voted against the McNary-Haugen "equalization fee" measure. Let it pass that Reed voted and spoke against this bill, on constitutional grounds, despite the fact that word had been conveyed to him that if he would cease, or even temper, his opposition, he might count on certain Southern delegates to the next national convention.

Consider the question only from the point of view of what is expedient for the farmers. Regard the stand of Reed against the surtax reductions proposed and put through Congress by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats. Assuredly, the action of Reed on that occasion was the very antithesis of what might have been expected from a candidate so eager to curry favor with the industrial East. Still more important to remember is the consistent opposition of Reed to the high tariff Republican policy.

Do the farmers of Missouri really believe that they would stand a better chance of receiving economic justice at the hands of former Gov. Lowden, spokesman of a party committed to the high-tariff principle, a party which draws its financial sustenance from and returns benefits to the industrial East, than at the hands of Senator Reed?

REPAIR THE LEVEES.

Once in a while it is a fine thing to break the law. Once in a while we have a public official with the common sense to recognize that fact. We see to have such an official in Secretary of War Davis. But Comptroller-General McCarl, apparently, is of the type that stands by the letter of the law.

Here is the situation: Down on the lower Mississippi, as everybody realizes, there is an immense amount of repair work to be done on the levees, and now is the time to do it. But the Mississippi River Commission is broke. It has no money for this work, and no legal way of getting any until Congress convenes. When will Congress convene—a month from now, or two, or three? Meanwhile, time is flying. But there is an unalotted balance of $2,000,000 in the river and harbor funds. The Comptroller-General has ruled that the Mississippi River Commission may not use this money. That is the law. Secretary Davis, however, has appealed to him to reconsider that ruling. He wants the Comptroller-General to turn this money over to the commission so that the vitally imperative work of repairing the levees can be done with all speed.

Mr. Davis is facing facts. He realizes that the flood, with its disastrous consequences, has wiped out statutory regulations for the ordinary administration of related funds. Here is a most urgent need. Here is money to meet it. Simple justice, public policy and public sentiment and horse sense all urge the course suggested by Secretary Davis. And it may also be remarked that when Mr. Coolidge declined to call Congress in extraordinary session to deal with the immediate requirements of the flood problem, he, too, was deaf to the petition of public policy, public sentiment and horse sense.

THE MUSSOLINI WORSHIPPERS.

Observing that numerous Americans, tourists and others are admirers of Fascism in Italy, the Milwaukee Journal asks: "But how would they like to see such a system adopted in this country? How would they like it if all who dared criticize an administration—the Bonars, La Follettes and Norries—could be bundled off to a penal colony?"

The answer is that they would like it fine. Indeed, they regard this ruthless suppression of criticism as one of the very best features of the system. Either a man believes in democracy and free speech, or he doesn't. The man who disbelieves in them for Italy, in his heart disbelieves in them for the United States. There are plenty of such men in this country. It has not been long since we heard announced the startling doctrine that the press had no right to criticize the foreign policy of the administration.

We do not have the Fascist system, and we have no penal colonies. But we have Judges like Thayer and English, and we have the Federal prison at Atlanta, where the aged Eugene Debs spent three years for criticizing the Government. What is more sinister, we have a very large class of people who give their moral support to that sort of thing.

Like it? Why, dear contemporary, they would love it!

It looks as if Rogers Hornsby might have taken the National League pennant to New York with him.

AN UNFORTUNATE OMISSION.

No embarrassment could have arisen from the dual employment of C. E. Smith had he apprised the Board of Aldermen during the Southern Approach debate that he was at times also the adviser of the Alton & Southern.

President Neun of the Board of Aldermen makes the very good point that at the time Mr. Smith advocated the approach before the Board—and this was in Mr. Neun's opinion the determining factor in the debate before the aldermen—it was supposed that the engineer was solely interested in the proposal as the consulting engineer of the city.

Mr. Smith insists that this was his sole interest, an assurance entitled to every respect. Nevertheless, it would have been fairer to the Board then, as well as more comfortable to the engineer himself now, had he left the Aldermen to judge whether or not he had been influenced by the fact that he had been intermittently connected for some six years with one of the prospective beneficiaries of such an approach.

That was an important consideration, and it therefore cannot be wondered if there is some disposition to feel that Mr. Smith's interest was not so single as it seemed.

The Post-Dispatch regrets the incident very much. It has great respect for Mr. Smith's opinions. It was obviously unethical for him to appear as consulting engineer for the city without making it known that he had been associated in the same capacity more or less regularly with one of the roads which wanted the southern approach built.

The Board was competent to say whether this affected the value of his advice to the city, and it should have been given that chance.

FORD PREPARES FOR BATTLE.

The present condition of the automobile industry reminds one of "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out. The biggest producer—Henry Ford—has temporarily quit producing. This explains why the output of motor cars in July was 26 per cent less than in July, 1926, and why the output during the first seven months of the current year was 13 per cent less than in the corresponding period a year ago. Since Jan. 1 the Ford production has been only about 40 per cent of the previous year's record, and in July it was a negligible quantity. The reason, of course, is to be found in the overhauling of the Ford plants preparatory to the manufacture of a new car, which is to displace Model T, better known as the flivver.

The recession in automobile production, about which so much has been written, is due then, solely to the Ford curtailment. The production of other cars from January to July of this year was 18 per cent greater than in the same period of 1926. Ford's competitors have profited from his temporary withdrawal, but the figures indicate that they have captured only a fraction of the business which normally would have gone his way.

Whether Ford will be able to regain his former sales volume with his new car is something which only the future can disclose. In any case, a keen contest is impending in motordom. Ford's competitors are also planning new models. They are seeking not only to hold their recent gains but to make further inroads in the low-priced field. From this competition the prospective buyer is sure to be the gainer. The producers are striving harder than ever to give him all they can for his money.

THE TAXING POWER.

A great economist once said that if you gave him the taxing power of his country, he would not care who made his laws; he would be the real ruler.

There are signs aplenty of late that we are at last beginning to glimpse the truth of those words, that we are awakening to the social possibilities of the taxing power. New York, harassed by the problem of finding decent, moderate priced living quarters for her growing hordes, has agreed to exempt from taxation for 20 years all tenements built to replace condemned ones. The real men of the great metropolises are naturally up in arms over this procedure, for they see that it is bound to encourage the building of modern apartments which will empty many of the old and unfit tenements.

Right here in Missouri the light seems to be breaking. Down in Southeast Missouri, the lumber men are beginning to consider the relation of the taxing power to the State's waning supply of timber.

Under the present system of taxation, they all agree, there is no use trying to raise timber, because the danger of having the taxes raised each year is too great. Hence, the advisable policy for the State to adopt is that of exempting timber land from taxation. This is the course—the Missouri timbermen may not know it—that Louisiana pursues. By it she has achieved two objects. She has encouraged the planting to forests, and she has reclaimed much of the land along the Mississippi from agricultural uses, thus decreasing the losses naturally incurred from a flood.

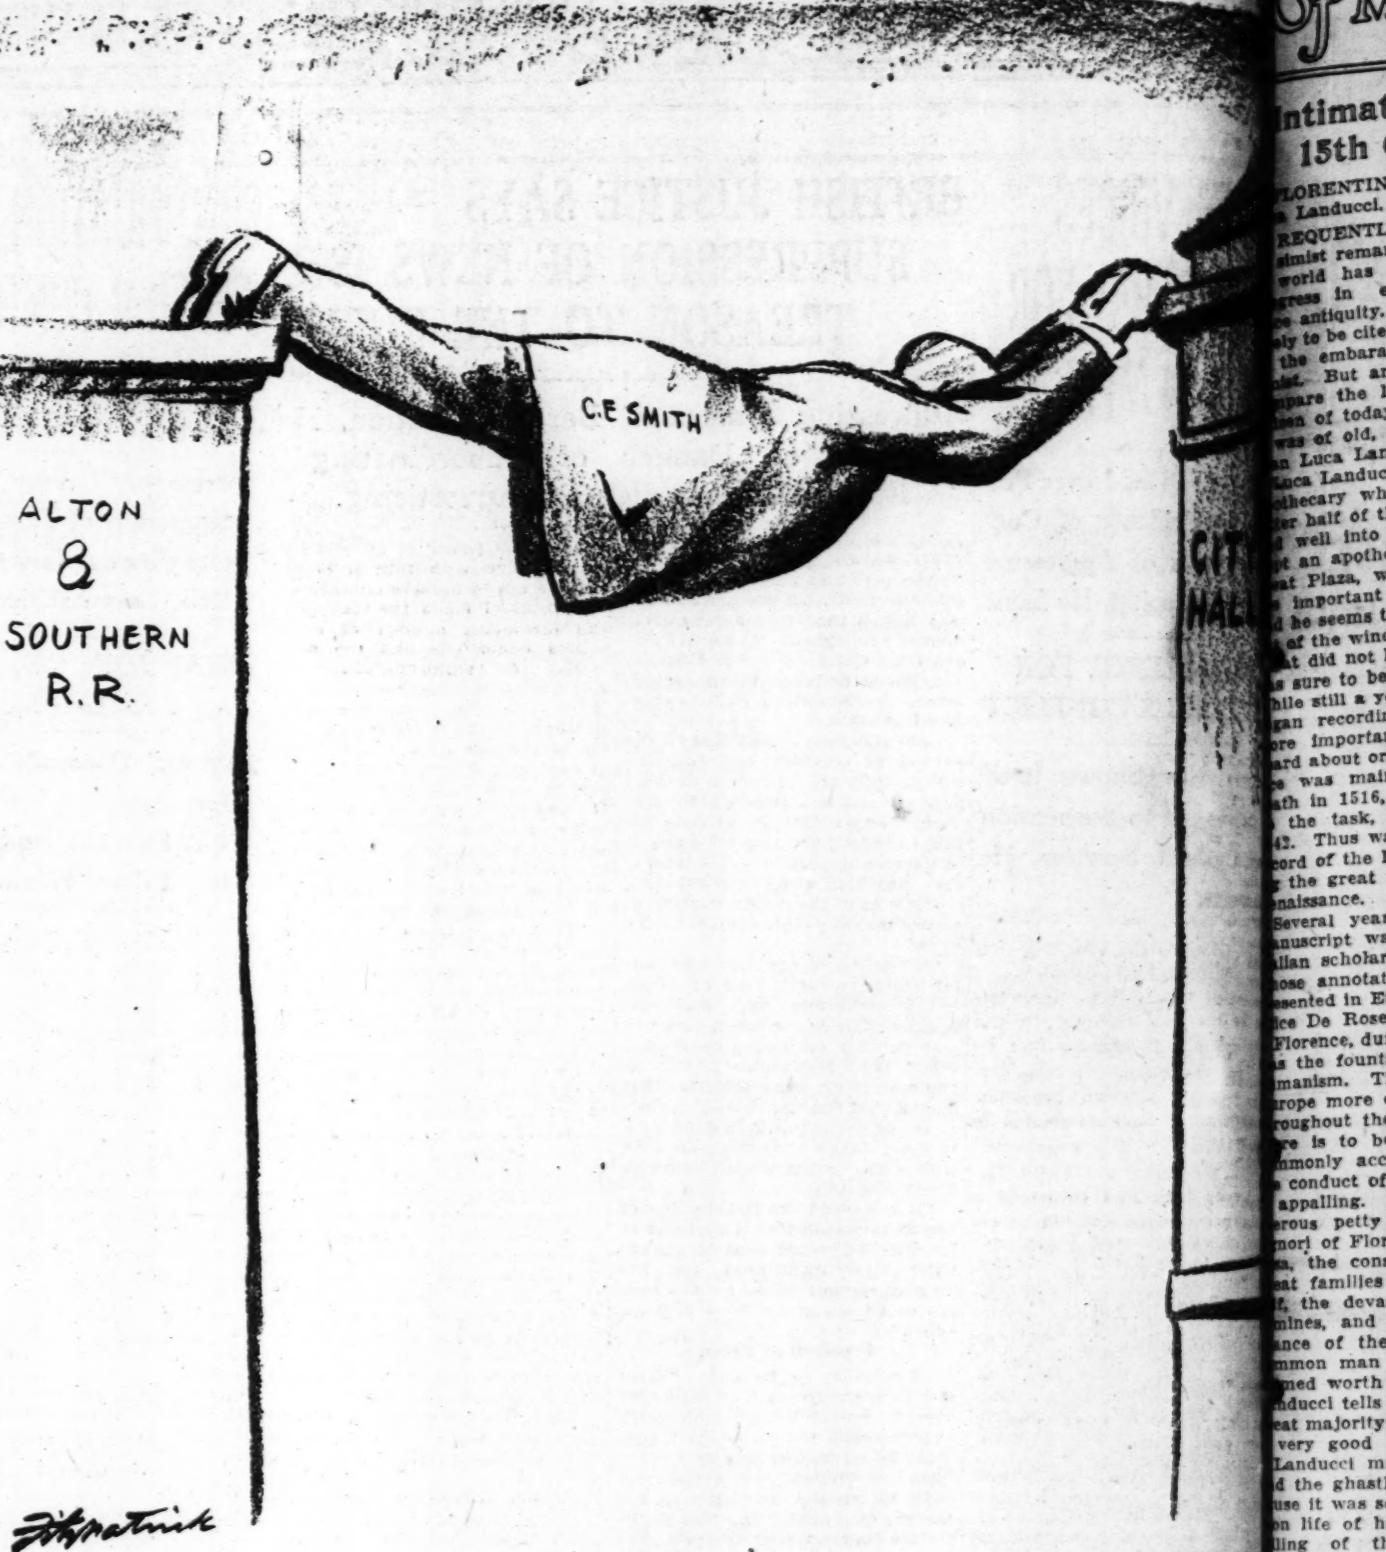

It is just possible that we shall before long realize how we have overlooked the worthy uses of the taxing power, which have been within our grasp since kings and potentates gave way to presidents and parliaments. It may not be a cure-all for the trouble of the race, though Turkey has just undertaken to get rid of bobbed hair by taxing it. But there is little room to doubt that a decrease of taxation acts upon initiative like a lifting of the dead hand.

It is no trouble to Neptune to swat flies.

SANDINO AND SALGADO.

This man Sandino of Nicaragua may be, as Secretary of State Kellogg says, a bandit, but we can't help but feel that the shades of our revolutionary heroes, who must have been depressed by the general course of events in Nicaragua, are a bit chirped up whenever they think about him. Sandino is the General whose ragamuffin and poorly armed forces were shot to pieces by bombs from American airplanes. He gathered together what was left of them and fled to the mountains. Now he has sent word to a fellow rebel, Salgado, who has shown signs of weakening, that if Salgado surrenders to the marines he will come down out of his mountain fastness and give him a sound beating. We give a cheer for Sandino and drop a tear for the sad plight of Salgado. What could be worse than to be caught between the Devil Dogs and the deep sea of Sandino's wrath? No sane man would willingly change places with Salgado for the whole of Nicaragua.

It looks as if Rogers Hornsby might have taken the National League pennant to New York with him.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

FREDERICK BRENNAN'S NOVEL.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE in the Emporia Gazette.

THIS month Simon & Schuster of New York are bringing out an exceptionally good novel of politics, "God Got One Vote" written by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, a young reporter on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "God Got One Vote" is the story of a city boss, "Boss" Van Hooz, half-Irish and half Dutch, who dominates for a generation the politics of one of our mid-western cities. While the background is built upon politics, the story is not essentially a political story. It is somewhat a newspaper story, somewhat a social and economic problem story, somewhat a political story of the social and economic progress of the mid-west during the last 20 years. But the best thing in the book is the portrait of the boss's daughter, the modern darling, darling flapper. The relations between the daughter and the father making a beautiful romance, a real American story.

Rarely has a young American been put so unflinchingly and so beautifully into a book as Mr. Brennan has put "Gwendolyn Van Hooz." This story is written in a modern style yet it has not for the basis of its theme the low assumption on which many of our modern authors write—that this is a world without plan, purpose or provision. The book is predicated on an abiding faith in the power of man and the profound purposes of God. It is a book, not of a month or a season but of a year, a good, wholesome, unflinching book yet always factual and deeply incurred from a flood.

It is just possible that we shall before long realize how we have overlooked the worthy uses of the taxing power, which have been within our grasp since kings and potentates gave way to presidents and parliaments. It may not be a cure-all for the trouble of the race, though Turkey has just undertaken to get rid of bobbed hair by taxing it. LORENTINE DIARY. By LUCA LANDUCCI. (Dutton). FREQUENTLY one hears a pessimist remark that the civilization we have made little or no progress in essential humanity over the centuries. The great war is surely to be cited as evidence, much to the embarrassment of the optimist. But anyone who cares to turn the life of the average man of old, need go no farther than Luca Landucci's diary. Luca Landucci was a Florentine secretary who lived during the second half of the fifteenth century well into the sixteenth. He ran an apothecary's shop on the Plaza, where practically all important events took place, and it seems to have been looking out of the window most of his life. All did not happen in the Plaza, however, to be talked about there. While still a young man, Landucci was recording day by day the more important things that he heard about or saw, and the peace he was maintained until his death in 1516, when his son took up the task, continuing it until 1562. Thus was made an intimate record of the life of Florence during the years of the Italian Renaissance.

Several years ago Landucci's manuscript was discovered by an Italian scholar, Iodoco del Badia, whose annotated version is now presented in English translation by Alice De Rosen Jervis.

Florence, during Landucci's time, was the fountainhead of the new humanism. There was no city in Europe more enlightened, yet throughout the life of Landucci there is to be noted a spirit of accepted brutality in the conduct of life that to us now appalls. What with the numerous petty wars between the nobles of Florence and Siena and the constant strife between families within the city itself, the devastating plagues and famines, and the religious intolerance of the time, life for the common man can scarcely have been worth the pain of it, and Landucci tells us that often to the death the dead came to seem very good friends.

Landucci mixes the ludicrous and the ghastly in his record, because it was so mixed in the common life of his time. Now he is king of the prayer-merchant who by way of proving himself a saint and his prayers of a high quality stripped and entered a baker's oven while the populace gaped, emerging therefrom unharmed to sell his bread like the proverbial hot cake.

Again we are reading of contending friars who proposed to test their rival doctrines by burning through fire, but who, at the last moment, preferred to strangle each other until the last had gathered to see the show.

Me too. The good old boot and shoe is dead enough for me.

I always say they gravity to come with up there and what's a fellow going to do if the dern thing cuts out on him, or a city, say, or an ocean.

Well there's his parachute now—Yeh, but what if it don't open?

Guess that's true. What the hell don't open? Where is he then, hey? Yeh—

Now come you're out here today? Who, me? Why, the wife and wanted to see this fellow Lindbergh's plane. I brought the newspaper because it was half threatening when we left.

Lindbergh, hey? That was a great head the Efficiency Board named. I'm a little bit batty about him myself. Thought he might be around today.

Say, he was a great one, he was. Yeh—

Thomas chairman at $6000 a year; William M. Kline, secretary, $4200; and Sidney S. May, at $2000.

Burke, I'm right glad to know you're name's Holthaus, $3800 block on the street. Come on over here and I'll give you a drink. Yeh, I always say that you're the only feller that did this trans-Atlantic stuff right.

Yeh, and he didn't lose his head this bird Levine, neither—

WILLIAM H. O'DONNELL DIES

Chicago Criminal Lawyer Succumbs to Heart Disease.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Patrick H. O'Donnell, 64 years old, eminent criminal lawyer, died today at his home near Burrows, Ind. O'Donnell had been ill several days of heart trouble. His wife and seven children were at his bedside.

The official acts of Coroner Bopp of Louis County, which are alleged to be contrary to the statutes, are to be presented to the next grand jury. The following will prevail, if we know our St. Louis County grand juries: Five to one that no trial bills will be returned; 10 to one that they are, the cases will never come to trial; 30 to one that if any goes to trial, it will result in a fiasco; 40 to one that it will happen. Coroner Bopp will be Coroner the same old stand.

A complete account of the Sacco-Vanzetti case will soon be published by the International Publishers, New York. The author of "Sacco and Vanzetti," Eugene Lyons, was in intimate touch with the seven years' judicial drama and has written considerably on the subject in newspapers and magazines. He aims, according to the publishers, not only to give a succinct account of the facts and the actors in the drama, but to reveal the social forces involved on both sides of the case.

A alert mind, ever open to conviction—ears and eyes awake to new ideas and impressions—yet full of common sense—she says:

“I would no more try to cure tooth trouble with a dentifrice than I would try to cure appendicitis by swallowing soda. Dear me! We had never heard of half these frightful tooth ills when I was a girl; we simply brushed our teeth twice a day and kept them clean!”

“My teeth are beautifully preserved. I have gone to the dentist twice a year ever since I can remember, and have used the same dentifrice since I was a girl.”

Most people use the same dentifrice she uses. Most dentists recommend that same dentifrice. It is Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream—designed by Colgate & Co. with the express purpose of doing the one thing which leading dental authorities agree a dentifrice must do—clean.

Ribbon Dental Cream is made to clean teeth, and it cleans them better by the following modern method: As you brush, it breaks into a sparkling, bubbling foam; in this foam is calcium carbonate, a finely ground powder which loosens clinging food particles, and polishes all tooth surfaces. Next, this foam, in a detergent, washing wave, sweeps over teeth, tongue, gums, washing all surfaces, removing the very causes of tooth decay.

Colgate's attempts to do no more than clean, because dentists say that a dentifrice should do no more. Rely on your dentist to cure—rely on Colgate's to clean.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 2.—The Diversion Board completed its report last night on flood control,

mailed it to the Mississippi River

Commission at St. Louis and refused to divulge any of its contents. Col. E. H. Schulz, chairman, said this was the only course

the board could follow, since the report is not final, but merely information which the commission and the War Department will use in forming a final plan.

On this confidential report, it is believed, hinged the fate of levees

as the only protection from floods.

It has been indicated the board

favors a system of diversions

as a means of saving for the future.

What route for a

channel was finally decided upon,

what the cost and what the decision on reducing height of levees is not disclosed.

The route mentioned chiefly,

however, would run from Cape

Girardeau, Mo., to the mouth of Red River in Louisiana. This would relieve the overflow of the Mississippi River at the Northern connection and carry it through artificial and natural and improved bayou channels.

The cost of such a channel was not mentioned in the secret report. Its enormity, however, was said to be a big obstacle against the plan. Reduction of the height of the present levees and those proposed was considered. This would be practical, it was said, and would permit engineers to make the levees stronger with the savings from this course.

The four members of the Diversion Board are: Col. Schulz, Maj.

Donald H. Connolly of Memphis,

chief of the first and second districts; Maj. John C. Lee, Vicksburg, chief of the third district;

Maj. W. H. Holcomb, New Orleans,

of the fourth district.

THREE MEN ARRAIGNED IN LIQUOR RING INQUIRY

Warrants for Missing Illinois Prosecutor and Five Others on Protection Charge.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Three of the men arrested in connection with the investigation of graft in McHenry County—Lester Eddinger, former Sheriff; Jack Bickler, a reporter for the "Daily Herald"; Fred Justin, were arraigned today and released on bonds. A hearing on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition was set for Sept. 16.

N. F. Stellen, former postmaster of Woodstock and Stephen Helmert, also arrested yesterday, have not been arraigned.

It was learned today that the McHenry County investigation was initiated several months ago by a "vigilante committee."

Alfred H. Pousa, who was elected State's Attorney of McHenry County three years ago on an "ultra dry" ticket was a fugitive today from a warrant charging liquor law violation in connection with the same case.

Police, who disappeared Sunday after cashing an $800 salary voucher, left letters saying he would never be back, blaming politics for his disappearance and a countrywide business running protest wine.

According to the Government agents, the liquor ring controlled all protection on boose running in the county and they charged the missing state's attorney was head of the conspiracy. Postmaster Stellen and the former Sheriff were accused of having been the collectors for the ring.

Sonny Grommes, one of those still sought under the warrants, is alleged to have headed the beer ringers.

The results of the Federal investigation are to be laid before a grand jury this month, and a blanket indictment naming from 40 to 50 persons will be sought.

Belief that the missing state's attorney might kill himself was expressed by his friends. It was known that he had deeded his home to his mother just before disappearing and made a new will. The state's attorney had been under observation by the Federal agents for several months in connection with his disappearance. The five taken in yesterday's roundup were held under bonds of from $1,500 to $10,000.

MAN STRUCK BY TRUCK; BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO

John Garrene, Suffers Fractured Skull; Driver Arrested; Joseph Lupo, 6, Hit Crossing Street.

John Garrene, 67 years old, of 4714 Farlin avenue, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by a truck yesterday as he was crossing Market street at Ninth street. The truck, driven by Harry Paul, 4314 Evans avenue, was turning north into Ninth street when Garrene was struck. Garrene was taken to City Hospital and the driver arrested pending investigation.

Joseph Lupo, 8-year-old son of Miller Lupo, 805 Fallon street, was seriously injured when a machine driven by Robert Franklin, Negro, struck him as he was attempting to cross the street in front of his home. The child was taken to City Hospital where he was said to have a fractured pelvis and internal injuries. Franklin was held.

DRY RAIDS IN CHICAGO LOOP

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—That place in the loop once widely known as the "Workingmen's Exchange" which before prohibition boasted of "the largest schooner in the world for a nickel," was raided by Federal agents last night.

The officers reported they found a saloon equipped luxuriously in the best pre-prohibition manner. Three men and three barrels of beer were taken. Three other alleged wet spots in the loop were raided by the Federal men during the day.

RECIPES FOR DISHES
IN WEEK'S MENUSThese Dishes Are Suggested as Being Seasonable and Easily Prepared.Chicken livers and bacon are especially good for this kind of a sandwich. Cut six livers in slices, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add an equal amount of sliced bacon, cook together until the livers are tender. Add two tablespoons of flour, salt, pepper, a dash of salt, and one cup of stock or tomato. Season with Worcestershire sauce and serve on hot sauted toast.

Steak and Onions.

Peel and slice the onions and put them into a pan in which there is a tablespoon of melted butter.
Butter is good because it burns readily with too much fire, and it is best to cook the onions so gently or over so small a fire that they cannot burn. You cannot do this without closely covering the pan, when they will cook soft in 10 minutes, often, or even less if well, onions vary in hardness or ripeness.Now add a little meat stock and turn up the fire, remembering to give them some stirrings, and in a short time they will be delicately colored and be ready to "smother"
the steak, which has been broiling.
Always start the onions first, because they can wait, if necessary,
and the steak will not.

Succotash.

Take one cup cooked rice, one cup corn cut from the cob, one tablespoon flour, two tablespoons butter, one cup milk and salt and pepper to taste. Remove string from beans and cut into inch lengths and boil until tender.
Add corn and beans when freshly cooked. Add seasonings and lastly the milk which has had the flour stirred into it. Bring all to a boil.cut into slices. Dip slices into flour seasoned with pepper and salt. Fry one-half pound of sliced bacon in frying pan and then fry slices of liver in bacon fat. Serve with bacon and brown gravy.3 BIG REMLEY STORES

AMERICAN MAID MALT

LEADS ALL OTHERS IN BODY-STRENGTH AND FLAVOR.

Vegetable pie is a complete meal in itself and well worth trying. While chicken pie and meat pie have been popular since time was, it is only recently that vegetable pie was invented. Indeed, it is only now that it has become popular.

Vegetable pie is a complete meal in itself. It is filled with vegetable surprises, tomatoes, onions, potatoes and green peppers with bits of parsley for trimmings and flavor. It sounds appetizing enough to try and here are directions for making it.

Vegetable Pie.

Take one cup cooked rice, one and one-half cups stewed tomatoes, two tablespoons butter, one cup milk and one-half cup onion, four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons minced green peppers, two cups canned or cooked fresh peas, two cups mashed potatoes and one egg. Mix all together and add onion finely minced.

Cook until a golden brown. Add rice, tomatoes, peas, pepper, parsley and enough water to make moist. Turn into a well-buttered baking dish. Beat yolk of egg until thick and lemon-colored. Beat the white of egg and lightly into the potato and place on top of the vegetables.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Milton C. Work.

To listen to the ordinary talk which follows a bridge game, especially those in which the players do not rank in the expert class, one might be led to imagine that overbidding is the greatest fault known at the bridge table, and that the player who does not bid a no-trump unless he has all four suits stopped, nor bid a suit unless he has the Ace-King-Queen and two others with it, is the partner for whom every one is looking. But while rash and unsound overbidding frequently is followed by very disastrous results, I would毫不犹豫地 select the partner who notoriously overbids, rather than the one who notoriously underbids.

Underbidding produces more losses than overbidding, although the disastrous consequences of undue timidity are not so noticeable or obvious and consequently not the subject of so much comment, as the losses produced by undue boldness. For example, a dealer who holds Ace-King-x-x of a suit may pass his bidding, may work badly for his side, under any one of the following conditions:

(a) The hand may be passed out when a bid by dealer would have produced game, or at least a worth-while score.

(b) The pass may permit the adversaries to obtain cheaply a profitable contract which the bid would either have kept them from naming, or getting a raise from partner, had the former not contracted higher than they could make.

(c) The bid may suggest a lead which will be most advantageous.

Then again a player with a light no-trumper (such as a hand as Sp: A-x-x Ht: K-J-x D: Q-J-x C: x-x-x) may pass instead of bidding, and as a result, may lose a game-going opportunity; and it may be that in neither case would anyone at the table notice what might have been lost.

It should be bid initially been subjected to the most scrutinizing and careful tests, and the resultant conventional system has proved in the long run to be a winner. Therefore, when a player who has a sound no-trump or a sound original suit-bid passes, he places his side at a disadvantage.

One of the difficulties growing out of playing with a notorious underbidder is that his hand is destined to overbid, with the idea of equalizing the underbidding; and, when the original pass was properly made—possibly with great weakness—the overbid is very apt to produce serious results.

Many players pass originally with such hands as the following, all of which should be bid once Spade:

Sp: Q-J-x-x Ht: A-M-x D:

C: x-x-x

Sp: A-x-x-x Ht: A-J-x D:

C: x-x-x

Sp: A-J-10-x Ht: A-J-x D:

C: x-x-x

Sp: K-Q-x-x Ht: A-J-x D:

C: x-x-x

All initial suit-bids of one or two are made in the same way, regardless of which suit is bid. A Heart, Diamond or Club should similarly be bid with a hand that contains in either of those suits the above Spade holding and had the side strength shown above.

Many players also pass with the following, all of which should be bid no-trump:

Sp: A-x-x Ht: A-x-x D:

C: A-x-x

Sp: A-K-x Ht: A-Q-J D:

C: x-x-x

Sp: A-x-x Ht: A-x-x D:

C: J-x-x

Sp: K-x-x Ht: K-x-x D:

C: Q-J-x

Sp: A-x-x Ht: K-x-x D:

C: K-J-x

The same tendency to underbid is already, even at this advanced stage, noticeable in the game of Contract. The excuse given is that as the Contract penalties are so severe, the original bids should be most conservative; and while there are various ideas as to the strength that should be required, we hear on all sides the cry: "Do not bid unless you have much more than you need to be in Auction." As yet it is entirely too soon to suggest, other than in the most tentative manner, a system of Contract bidding; but the sensible way of looking at the situation would seem to be that the severity of Contract penalties is offset by the increase in Contract rewards, and that the enormous bonus allowed for winning a Contract rubber fully justifies a reasonable bid. To pass out at Contract a hand which, if bid, would have made game, is apt to be more serious in its results than a similar act would be at Auction: so my first thought is that original bids in Contract should be made with about the same strength as in Auction, but that the latter bidding at Contract should be conducted with considerable conservatism.

Rotato Cakes.

Take, boil and when done mash finely six potatoes. Add to them butter, pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar, two beaten eggs and enough flour to firm the mass. Then form into cakes, dust with flour and lay on a floured plate. When ready have a saucepan of boiling salted water and drop the cakes in a few at a time. Keep the water boiling and when the cakes rise to the top they are done. Lift the cakes with a skimmer to a hot plate, turn over melted butter and a little sour cream and serve.

Break that will keep for six years without deteriorating was exhibited at the recent London Medical Exhibition.

HOW TO STAY BLONDE

By ANNE JORDAN

BLONDE hair is all right if you were born with it. Then the texture of your skin matches the color of your hair. But if your skin was meant for a brunette, and you are fed up with the color of auburn instead of blonde! Fair hair and brunette skin are never beautiful together.

Being blonde has its handicaps, for golden hair has a habit of turning dark as the years creeps on. And right away the sweet little things run to the drug store and grab for a short cut to stagger back to normal. They start in peroxiding, and ruin what chance they've got to look naturally fair.

If your hair has started turning dark, use harmless things such as rinses and lemon juice in the rinsing water. And shampoo your hair with plain yellow laundry soap.

This will give a touchingly light color to your hair, and not that brassy look that bleaches bring out. Don't try to get your hair too light. It is much prettier a little darker than it is when shades and shades too blonde for your skin.

To restore the color of your hair, use a tablespoon of baking soda (baking soda) to a bowl of water in which you immerse your hair. Soda will make your hair very flinty, but also rather dry. If you use this one week, the next time you wash your hair, I would advise the juice of a lemon in the water as a rinse. Never use the two together. And each night you should massage the scalp well, to offset the dryness of the scalp.

In rinsing the hair in soda water, be sure to get the entire head wet with it. Pour your head over just as far as you can into the bowl without actually standing on your head, and cup the water up in your hands over the back of your neck.

The Browns Are Winning.

Despite the demand for grays and blacks for evening, for greens and blues for semi-formal afternoon wear, the browns are coming into their own for sport costumes, as is usually the case in the fall. Kasha is the material most used.

The LABYRINTH

By CHARLES CALDWELL DOBIE.

Copyright, Baudierick Publishing Co.

"I charge that the witness has, at times, been strongly under the influence of her partner, Felix Dupont—that she was under this influence during their mind-reading act and that she was under this influence on the night of her fatal death."

The District Attorney leaped to his feet. The Judge halted his objections with uplifted hand. "Mr. Semple, your remarks are highly improper. Your duty is to prove your case by examination of witnesses and by no other means."

"It is impossible for me to examine a witness who is not in full possession of her faculties."

The District Attorney's explosive manner elicited a roar of admiration and admiration.

"My honor," he began calmly. "Since Mr. Semple is so ready to call in expert advice, he may not be adverse to a simple demonstration. Permit Miss Parks and Mr. Dupont to have a sample of their act here. That, I think, will dispose of this absurd charge of hocus-pocus."

I made a discreet signal of assent to Semple, who turned his voice into an emphatic objection. A stifled cry came from the witness stand. Gloria had fainted.

My first concern was for this stricken girl. Fortunately I had a restorative in my pocket. I called for a glass of water, which was instantly produced. Lacking a spoon, I stirred in the medicine with a silver pencil. Gloria revived swiftly and smiled out her thanks. I turned from her to catch a glimpse of Semple passing the corridor. I set the tiny glass down and went out to him.

"Whatever possessed you to object to the mind-reading demonstration?" I demanded in an unctuous tone.

"You don't mean to say you want her under Dupont's influence, do you?"

"Anybody's, so long as the trick is done! Let's hope it isn't too late for us to get out of this under your question how swift I'm powerless, now, unless I can catch her eye. Only Dupont or a miracle can open her subconscious mind."

A rapping rap upon the Judge's desk told us that the recess was over. We went in and resumed our places. The District Attorney repeated his request to have the mind-reading act performed. Semple withered at his objection. The Judge assented.

Felix Dupont rose and made his way to Gloria's side. Instantly Gloria seemed surcharged with animation as her glance traveled with swift intuition toward his. My spirits rose. Dupont was walking too completely into the trap. But my elation was short lived. Felix Dupont was not to be snared so easily. He avoided the girl's eyes, deliberately.

"Ordinarily," he lied, "the lady is blindfolded. But if I turn her chair so, toward Your Honor, it will not be necessary."

And suiting his action to his wordings he turned. Gloria's chair at an angle toward the Judge's bench which completely shut the audience from her view. Then with a little dramatic flourish he began to move among the spectators, picking a hat, gloves, card cases, coins and calling them. Gloria in emphatic staccato to name each object in turn. Suddenly I saw Gloria start almost imperceptibly and her gaze became slightly fixed. I followed the line of her vision. A tiny prick of light was gleaming just below the top of the Judge's table. I looked again. The glass from which Gloria had drunk medicine was lying on a ledge where she had left it in her anxiety to join Semple. The silver pencil that I had used for stirring was within it. A faint sunbeam was playing upon the pencil's shining surface. Semple flushed a look at me. Even he had sensed the significance of this occurrence. Light reflected on the tip of any shining object would be sufficient to produce a sort of autophysiopsis in a sensitive person. The exact words that I had used only the night before in explaining the theory of hypnosis to him passed clearly through my mind. An intense moment followed for both of us. Gloria's stare became more fixed, her replies to Dupont's questions more dreamy. I heard the sharp click of a drawn shade and, the next instant, the light upon the pencil was extinguished, and with it my foreboding disappeared.

With the disappearance of the gleam of light, Gloria's rapt look also vanished. The mind reading demonstration droned on—inaccurate, uninspired, dull. A tremendous depression seized me—it seemed as if the cards were stacked against innocence and youth with a vengeance. I turned my attention to Felix Dupont. He was the incarnation of an illustrious career too assertive, nor so swaggering. But with a glint of evil triumph in his eye that no amount of acting could quench. My despairing interest in his performance was diverted by a burning sensation on the back of my hand. I looked down to discover a patch of sunlight about the size of a half dollar making a bright spot in the gloom, a patch of sunlight that had been deflected, instead of completely smothered by the uneven surface of the shade.

"Have you a pocket mirror?" I whispered to Semple.

He nodded and passed me one in a cheap tin case. I pretended, for the benefit of those who had seen me the day before, to search in my eye for an innocent, kind, and halting satisfaction their fleeting curiosity. I cautiously concealed the tiny mirror.

for in the palm of my hand and dropped it to a position where I picked up the tiny shaft of light. A school boy trick suddenly fraught with stirring possibilities. The harnessed sunbeam fledged into a silver moth through the room and alighted at the bidding, firmly upon the shining surface of the pencil resting in the glass opposite Gloria's range of vision. She gave another almost imperceptible start, clasped her hands together and looked dreamily in the direction of the light. I glanced at Semple. He nodded slightly.

At that moment Dupont had picked up a man's head band bag. "And now, what am I doing?" he called out.

"The bag is in the bag." "Then again! What is in the bag?"

"A bag—something that looks like a bag!" He opened the bag impudently. "And what is in it?"

"There is money in the bag."

"Then again! What is in the bag?"

"Money."

A dark scowl of impatience passed over Dupont's brow. "What do you say that for? Think again."

"There is money in that bag," came with quiet insistence from Gloria.

He cleared his brow of its betraying anger. "Well," began Semple, "perhaps a few cents."

She shook her head. "Oh, no—there is over a thousand dollars in it."

"His face went chalky white. "Come . . . come! This is a lady's bag, remember."

"Oh, no!" It is not a lady's bag—it is the bag I gave you on the night—the night!"

But before she could complete the sentence Dupont had flung the bag and was holding up a fountain pen.

"What am I holding, now? Use your wits! What is it?" His voice was shaking.

"A fountain pen!"

"Correct!" He turned quickly to the Judge. "Is that enough, Your Honor?"

The Judge bowed assent, but before another word could be spoken, Semple was on his feet.

"You were saying something about a bag, Miss Parks."

The light of the lamp began to quiver; the hand was shaking.

"Your bag! My father's bag."

"Oh, your father had a bag, then? What sort of bag?"

"A bag that he kept all his money in."

"And you gave that bag to someone?"

"Yes . . . I gave that bag to Mr. Dupont on the night—the night!"

"Yes, Miss Parks."

"On the night—the night he shot me!"

There was a sudden commotion.

I saw Felix Dupont moving swiftly toward the door. The Judge leaned forward, and pointing at the skulking figure, cried:

"Hold that man!"

The pocket mirror in my hand fell to the floor. And, in a swift blur of emotion, I saw Gloria rise from her seat and hesitate a moment while her bewilderment glance swept the room, a bowing glance, waiting, as it had always done, to be answered. But this time, instead of fluttering helplessly into the evil imprisonment of Felix Dupont's gaze it fluttered and fell into the crystal clear eyes of Larry Braden, who had come to his feet with a leap of youthful and triumphant ecstasy.
